1 item; 2pp

Handwritten letter from Constance Markievicz, Holloway Jail to Madeleine French Mullen. Constance Markievicz thanks her for the present and tells her 'Mrs. Clarke is wonderful, with her bad health, its marvellous how she sticks it out at all. Give Kathleen and Emer my love and thank Emer for fags she sent me. I hope K is well; I heard that she was back from her holiday, but not going about much. I am all right again, gone up in weight and all the better for my enforced rest! ...now goodbye much love to you and yours and my soldier girls.'

Envelope and handwritten letter from Eva Gore Booth, 33 Fitzroy, Square, London to Dr. Lynn and Madeleine French Mullen. The letter relates to her visits to Constance Markievicz in prison. Countess Markievicz wishes to send her love to a number of friends and hopes Andy Dunn and Mr. Nugent win something at the Feis or anywhere for their music. She is also anxious to receive any relics of Easter Week, Eva Gore Booth therefore asks 'Could you tell "the boys" this, especially she wants a stamp if possible kept for her.' Eva also writes that Countess Markievicz is now working in the kitchens, 'she got awfully tired and rather seedy with all that sitting still sewing.' The governor remarked that "she's very energetic!!"

Handwritten draft of a letter or minutes from a meeting written on Irish Transport and General Workers Union headed paper. It mentions that 'Prior to Easter Week there existed in the premises of Liberty Hall a workroom run in connection with the Cooperative Society's Drapery Shop attached to the Transport Workers Union. During the occupation by the military our workrooms were dismantled and the machines smashed. Since Easter Week the girls employed in the workroom have been idle and we now propose restarting this branch of our activities immediately pending rebuilding operations and subsequent reopening of the shop. In order to accomplish this we would require a grant to procure machines, materials etc. and to pay the wages which have always been calculated on a fair trade basis. We desire the money to be placed to the credit of the Irish Women Workers' Union and we here by append a list of its officers. President Countess M[Markievicz] Vice President James Connolly. Acting General Secretary Miss Molony. Members of Committee Mary Geraghty, T. Sheen, Miss Perolz etc. In the unavoidable absence of Miss Molony, Dr. Lynn and Miss French Mullen were deputed to call on Mr. Murphy. In the course of a [ill.] interview a short account of our work done and plans for the future were set before him and met with his cordial approval and he assured our representations that the necessary funds to finance these schemes would be forthcoming on application to the National Aid Association.'

Handwritten envelope and letter from May Jones, 51 Queen's Road, Richmond, Surrey to Dr. Lynn and Madeleine French Mullen. She thanks both of them for their presents. 'Madeleine's cake arrived back in Dublin just before I left. Surely "they expected to find some important clue to a very deep laid scheme hidden in the cake, for it was literally in crumbs!' She also mentions that 'it seems ages since I was over, but I suppose it is good that some of us should be here; and though it is difficult to know what good can be done here, still I suppose a soldier's duty is to do his best in whatever position he's placed. The first thing will be a raffle for diamond earrings for the fund. Don't forget that £50; but keep it private.'

9 July 1917

Handwritten letter from Laurence Ginnell, Old Ground Hotel, Ennis to Dr. Lynn, 9 Belgrave Road, Rathmines, Dublin. He writes ‘the bustle of an election contest is unfavourable to correspondence. Otherwise I would have written to say how pleased I was to hear of your coming to Mullingar next Sunday; and how sorry to hear of Miss ffrench Mullen’s breakdown. For a good while I have feared this. Her friends should insist upon her taking a long and complete rest. Otherwise something may happen which no one who knows her can bear think of. I told her brother so here last night. Subject to the uncertainty inseparable from popular decisions I believe we are going to have a bigger victory than in North Roscommon. My movements after that are not fully fixed, and I will try to see you before Sunday. If impossible, I will write to you.’

Envelope and two handwritten letters from J.A. Kingston, Rockwell College, Cashel, Tipperary to Madeleine ffrench Mullen. The letters relate to securing work for W.J. Jewel. J.A. Kingston writes 'I regret very much to say that I have no opportunity' in finding him work. 'If you think Mr. Jewel could come down here for a few weeks rest I am sure I would manage to put him up without much difficulty. Even if I had work to offer him, the people around here would treat him as an intruder and perhaps make his position uncomfortable.' In the second letter he tells Madeleine ffrench Mullen that Mr. Jewel can come at any time. There is also a handwritten draft of a letter to Fr. Kingston (30 April 1925).

Handwritten letter from Stanislas Markiewicz, Warsaw to Madeleine French Mullen. He tells her that her Easter Week diary would be of great interest as would an intimate account of the strike and that the Treaty question would be most vital. He came across a pamphlet his father had published by the Publicity Department I.R.A. called The Responsibility (no.5). He tells her he is enclosing a copy of a photograph. The B&W photograph is of Countess Markiewicz with her daughter Maeve and stepson Stanislas. The photograph is signed at the back by S.D. Markiewicz 'To Miss French Mullen with deep sentiments of regards and appreciation from the young man in the picture!'.
